

Ann Lowenstein

Ann Lowenstein was born in the midst of a great civil uprising on the planet Bbob (the "h" is silent). Her parents, members of the hereditary ruling family; seeing the proverbial writing on the wall and wanting to spare their infant daughter the horror of being drowned in a giant vat of warm chocolate pudding, (the traditional execution method on Bbob); packed her in a small, interdimensional starcraft and sent her winging into the Great Void of Space, where less than five minutes later, ("interdimensional", remember?) she appeared in a hospital nursery in Buffalo, NY. Since she was the only baby who weighed less than 12 lbs, wasn't chubby and pink, and had a full head of dark hair, the confused hospital staff matched her with the only non-Polish couple in the Maternity ward, and the rest is history. Ann has used her Mysterious Bbobolian Powers for the good of Fandom throughout the U.S. since the Summer of Love. She hopes eventually to return to Bbob, overthrow the Ministry of Unpronounceable and Really Very Ridiculous and Quaint Acronyms (MoUaRVRaQA), and return to her hereditary position as the Benevolent Ruler of Bbob. In the meantime, she lives in Kansas City, MO, where she serves as a Board Member for KaCSFFS and has run Gaming at ConQuest for the past several years.