

Jeremy Hamilton

Jeremy Hamilton is a local KC artist with delusions of mediocrity. He was born and bred in Tulsa, OK but you shouldn't hold that against him. Since moving to Kansas City in 2001, he has been fairly ensconced at the two local sci-fi conventions, ConQuest and Contraception, having contributed art to both. Taking inspiration from H.R. Giger, H.P. Lovecraft, and H.R. Pufnstuf, his work tends to either disturb or cause plagues (and sometimes it's funny- the art not the plagues). He currently resides in Kansas City, KS with his partner Pamela and their two cats and will brag to anyone about their beautiful home (you are forewarned). As a final warning, do not talk politics with Jeremy; he will try to convince you of the folly of voting for the lesser evil when you can vote Cthulhu/Yog-Sothoth in 2008.
